

Which do you want?

Ronald Reagan saved the life of the Democratic Party in California. If his opponent, who created the huge loss, had been re-elected the Democratic Party in California would have been in the same mess as New York.

Governor Reagan introduced reforms in the area of Public Welfare that saved California taxpayers about $2 billion and lopped 400,000 undeserving people off the list. This accomplishment took courage and integrity. His leadership throughout his life has been the same. This was shown when Reagan eliminated the Communists from the Motion Picture Union.

TV and socialistic newspapers keep hammering away against Reagan's principle of returning to the states many of the problems that the states should handle. The Democrats and President Gerald Ford say it will cost more if the states have to take on this additional work. But they do not say how much it will save in Federal taxes that they enjoy spending.

Politicians from both parties always talk about the need to reduce the federal government. Ronald Reagan is the only one with a plan to cut the size and spending of the federal government. Many of you citizens have hoped for years some leader would make this approach. Reagan did it as governor of California. Let's give him a chance to do it as President of the United States.

First it will be necessary to have Ronald Reagan nominated in the Republican convention. How can that be done? Vote for those who will support him. John B. Anderson says he will support Gerald Ford, so do not vote for John B. Anderson.

Some say, "What's the use—politicians are all alike." A few people give up the fight to save their way of life. Is that good? If we love our children that is one reason we should continue to work for liberty for future generations. We are thankful that there are more Americans that will never give up, who will stand firm, with determination to keep their freedom.

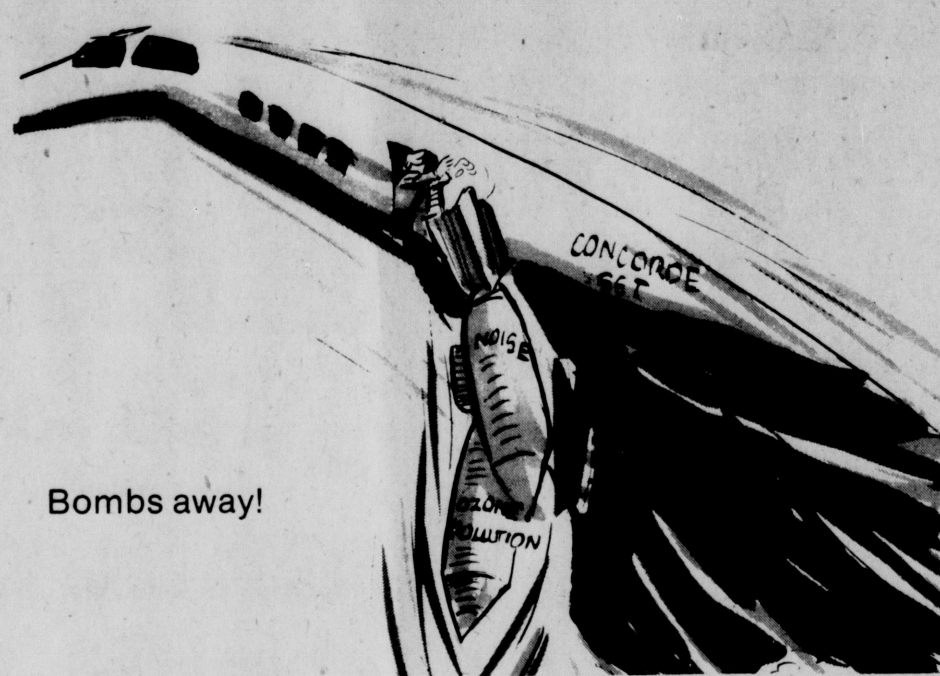

Opponents whisper that Reagan is a member of the Council of Foreign Relations, which is a group of men trying to socialize America so they can join Russia and China to create a one-world government. David Rockefeller is the leader of the CFR in America.

A year ago I wrote Ronald Reagan, asking if he was a member of the CFR. He answered, saying "Absolutely NO."

Socialistic Republicans, Democrats, CFR are worried that Reagan's following might be strong enough to be nominated in the GOP convention, therefore they will make many false statements.

Each one of you must decide what is the best for you and, of course, that is an honest person.

Voice of the people Family objects to trial reporting

To lose a beloved member of your family suddenly is a crushing blow. At the time Jake was killed we thought nothing could be worse. We would miss him terribly as there never was a better or more thoughtful man than Jake. We think back to the time Gary was just 8 and his father died. Jake took him under his wing so to speak and taught him all the things that only a man can teach a boy. He gave him the companionship that was so necessary. We have many memories of Jake, Gary, and his Cub Scout pals working together. Maybe it was only washing a car, fixing a bike or planting a tree, but with Jake it was fun. He taught many of the boys to swim, at the old swimming hole. Jake and his wife have two adopted sons, Joe and Roger, who grew up in a home atmosphere of love and understanding. Over the years Jake and his wife opened their home to five foster children. Ray was still with them at the time of Jake's death. This is the man that the news media crucified with their blaring headlines, because a boy (later judged insane) called him a bad man and worse. A man that had given much of his life to other people's children.

We, Jake's family, realize that startling headlines sell newspapers no matter who they hurt or how true they are. We also know that our laws don't cover all situations such as a 14-year-old (who admittedly killed a man), signing himself out of a mental hospital. We appreciate all the man-hours the coroner, the state's attorney and the sheriff's department spent on this, also for them going one step further and proving that Jake was the upstanding, respected individual that we, his family and many friends, already knew him to be.

Jake's family and proud of it,

I have been a constant reader of the Dixon Evening Telegraph for over 30 years. I will not be after this week.

The reporting of Lenny Ingrassia is ghastly.

My brother-in-law Harold Smith not only lost his life but a 14-year-old also tried to take his good name.

He told so many lies it is enough to make a person forget the Golden Rule and everything else.

I can't see how if the reporter read his testimony at the inquest he could write such a newspaper article.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were investigated in 1959 by Goldie Floberg of Rockford when they had physical custody of David Lunn of Rockford. They adopted two boys and were again investigated. These boys are now 25 and 26 years old.

They had custody of three foster children and were again checked by agencies. It is a disgrace to these agencies, too, the way your reporter writes.

Amboy

I would like to express the greatest displeasure over your handling of the shooting death of Harold Smith of Amboy.

Smith, or "Jake" as he was known to all of us who loved him, was the finest man that I have ever known.

I was six years old when my father died and Jake who was my uncle took over the role of father figure to me. He gave of his time and his knowledge to help my mother raise me. Jake taught me more about respect, responsibility, gentleness, dependability and in short the virtues of manhood than many fathers do their own sons.

Largely because of Jake, I grew up in the right way. I graduated from college, married a wonderful girl, have a beautiful daughter and have spent the last three years as a law enforcement officer.

Incestuous campaign laws divide court

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)— Congress, in voting the Election Campaign Law of 1974, and the Supreme Court majority in validating much of that legislation, tainted free elections, approved rules favoring incumbents, and corrupted the right to hold our political views private if we choose.

My first witness is Chief Justice Warren Burger, objecting to the Court's decision that federal assistance to presidential candidates is constitutional:

"I think there is something politically incestuous about the government financing and, I believe, inevitably then regulating, the day to day procedures by which the government is selected . . .

"Recent history," Burger said, "shows dangerous examples of systems with a close, 'incestuous' relationship between government and politics! . . . Up to now," he noted, "the Court has always been extraordinarily sensitive when dealing with First Amendment rights to the risk that the 'flag-tends-to-follow-the-dollars' . . .

Once the government finances . . . national (political) conventions by the expenditure of millions of dollars from the public treasury, we may be providing a springboard for later attempts to impose a whole range of requirements on delegate selection and convention activities. Does this foreshadow judicial decisions allowing the federal courts to 'monitor' these conventions to assure compliance with court orders or regulations? . . .

Both Burger and Associate Justice William Rehnquist see the process of interference with free speech and free expression already begun.

Says Burger, referring to the requirement that even contributions as small as $10 must be reported and those of $100 and over be published: "Rank-and-file union members or rising junior executives may now think twice before making even modest contributions to a candidate who is disfavored by the union or management hierarchy. Similarly, potential contributors may well decline to take the obvious risks entailed in making a reportable contribution to the opponent of a well-entrenched incumbent . . .

Noting that his publicizing of small donations thus makes more difficult the challenging of incumbents, Burger says "secrecy and privacy as to political preferences and convictions are fundamental to a free society." Witness, he says, the secret ballot. And the secrecy of choice of a bargaining representative for workers. At other times, says Burger, "this Court has seen to it that governmental power cannot be used to force a citizen to disclose his private affiliations." There is, he adds, "no realistic possibility that such modest donations will have a corrupting influence . . . Congress has 'used a shotgun to kill wrens as well as hawks.'"

Justice Rehnquist is equally vehement on government financing as approved by the Court. " . . . this legislation . . . has enshrined the Republican and Democratic parties in a permanently preferred position . . . establishing requirements for funding minor party and independent candidates to which the two major parties are not subject . . .

Continuing, Rehnquist says "I find it impossible to subscribe to the Court's reasoning that because no third party has posed a credible threat to the two major parties in Presidential elections since 1860, Congress may by law attempt to assure that this pattern will endure forever . . .

In this Burger concurred with Rehnquist, noting that his associates had, up to now, "been particularly cautious when dealing with enactments that tend to perpetuate those who control legislative power . . .

It is not clear why the Court majority saw otherwise.

Grim outlook for race between food, people

At least for the next 10 years, the race between world food production and population growth looks favorable. Worldwide, food output is projected to grow at a rate of 2.7 per cent a year to 1985, while demand will grow by 2.4 per cent.

There are some kickers hidden in the figures, however. Demand is expected to grow by 1.5 per cent in the developed countries but more than twice as much—3.4 per cent—in the developing nations. And whereas projected production growth will be 2.8 per cent in the developed countries, it will only be 2.6 per cent in the developing countries.

According to the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization, by 1985 some 34 nations with a combined population of 700 million could have a cereal deficit of from 52 million to 85 million tons—worth $10 billion to $17 billion at current prices—and they would be unable to finance this quantity of imports.

In the face of these statistics, food prices in the next decade are likely to move up steadily, says Stephen C. Schmidt, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Illinois, spurred both by continuously growing global demand and rising energy and farm production costs.

Despite record grain crops in the United States this year, world grain stocks are now down to about 100 million tons, or about a 27-day supply, he notes. This is inadequate to provide a safe margin against major crop shortfalls.

But while widespread famine is not in the picture, barring a series of poor crop years, everything, says Schmidt, "points toward continued tightness in the supply and demand situation and highly volatile prices."

Monopoly on public interest challenged

By DON OAKLEY

Environmentalists, welfare rightists, consumer advocates and the like are learning that nobody holds an exclusive patent on "the public interest." More and more of these groups are finding themselves on the defensive end of legal actions.

The list also includes at least one government agency. Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp., for example, has filed suit against the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission to prevent the commission from continuing to release "misleading, incomplete, inaccurate and unfair" information relating to the safety of household aluminum wiring.

The company charges that this information has caused numerous local government agencies to ban or propose to ban aluminum wiring and has led contractors to stop buying the product.

Whether this suit is in the public interest as well as that of Kaiser stockholders is for qualified, impartial experts to decide. But it does suggest that companies are no longer as willing as they once were to roll over and play dead to please consumer activists.

A better illustration of this turnabout is a "public interest" law firm in California, the Pacific Legal Foundation, which has scored notable successes against environmentalists and others, according to Barron's magazine.

The PFL has balked environmentalists trying to halt construction of a Trident missile base and a flood-control and irrigation dam on the American River, and has knocked down the Environmental Protection Agency's "master plan" to force cars off California's streets and freeways.

Since its founding in 1973, the PFL has won 25 out of 40 cases it has argued and 15 are still pending. It has yet to lose a case in final appeal.

The firm's most notable work, however, has been in the field of welfare reform. It helped institute a computerized program to ferret out welfare cheats by matching the Social Security numbers of recipients with quarterly wage reports filed by employers. The PLF successfully beat back attempts by welfare rights groups who attempted to have the program enjoined as an "invasion of privacy."

One year after the system's introduction under former Gov. Ronald Reagan (it has been continued under Gov. Edmund Brown), there were 785,000 fewer people on welfare in California and the state had saved $1 billion, yet deserving recipients received benefit hikes of more than 30 per cent.

This, in anybody's book, is serving "the public interest."

Cattle numbers decrease; first drop since 1958

The total number of cattle on farms and ranches numbered just under 128 million on Jan. 1, according to the report issued recently by the Crop Reporting Board of the USDA. The reduction was 3.8 million head from the record high of 131.8 million last Jan. 1, the first actual reduction in numbers since 1958. For a period in the late 1960's, numbers were stable. More recently, there have been sizeable increases each year. The largest increase was the one in 1973 to 6.2 million.

All categories were down except for steers over 500 pounds and heifers not being kept for herd replacements. As previously reported, the number of cattle on feed was up 28 per cent on Jan. 1: a 20 per cent increase in steers and a 50 per cent increase in heifers. So all of the additional cattle are already in feedlots.

Dairy herds continued to decrease slowly. Milk cows numbered 11.1 million and heifers for dairy replacements were at 4 million. Each category had a reduction of about 100,000 from last year.

The major reduction was in the beef breeding herd. Beef cows totaled 43.7 million, a drop of 1.7 million from last year. This reduction reflects the very high slaughter of cows, about 11.5 million during 1975. Heifers saved for beef cow replacements were 19 per cent below last year, at 7.2 million head—a decline of about 1.7 million. Calves under 500 pounds on Jan. 1 were estimated at 17.2 million. This figure compares to 16.4 million last year, a reduction of five per cent.

The 1975 calf crop was revised down substantially from previous estimates. It is now estimated at 50.4 million, compared to the estimate of 50.7 million for 1974.

The three per cent reduction in cattle numbers was slightly greater than many people expected. However, the figures given here are all estimates, carefully and conscientiously made. Clearly, this report does indicate there has been a change in trend within the cattle industry.

The immediate change in the beef industry as a result of this report will be small. The cattle industry should not become overly optimistic that all problems are past, though the change is in the right direction. Cattle numbers are still at the highest level of any year prior to Jan. 1, 1975. Slaughter during 1976 may be high enough that cattle numbers will be reduced further next year.

From the number of cattle on feed, the slaughter of fed cattle will be up sharply during the first half of 1976. The lower inventory of cows and cattle not on feed indicates that the number of cows and non-fed slaughter cattle should decline considerably. But the prices of fed cattle may be under pressure for several weeks. The spring rise will be less than last year because of the larger numbers on feed.

Weather will continue to be crucial. With a favorable year, feeder cattle prices may be higher this fall. The industry will return to a more orderly routine, with more cattle moving through feedlots. Supplies of non-fed beef will be reduced. But consumers will have a larger supply of high-quality fed beef. In the longer run, the direction of the industry will depend on the availability of feed and the strength of consumer demand.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE G-408: Lois B., aged 39, was given but four weeks more to live.

"Dr. Crane," she began,
"that was over three years ago,
but I am full of pep and still going strong!"

"Four years ago, I developed breast cancer and had a complete mastectomy, like that of Mrs. Gerald Ford and Mrs.
Nelson Rockefeller.

"After X-ray and irradiation of the blood via cobalt, I became nauseated and also lost my hair.

"So I felt terrible as I looked at my bald head and realized I would also need to wear a 'false' to replace my amputated breast.

"But the surgeons told me they felt I had a good chance to remain free of cancer the rest of my life.

"Alas, in six months the cancer showed up elsewhere and another visit to the hospital confirmed it by biopsies of swollen glands. My liver also began to enlarge.

"So the doctors told me to set my house in order and prescribed narcotics to keep me pain-free.

"Well, for a couple of days I was hysterical!

"But then I saw your column in our Santa Ana Register wherein you said cancer is usually regarded as due to some chemical deficiency that deprives our glands of necessary raw materials for producing their anti-cancer hormone.

"You wrote that all the 44 water-soluble chemical elements on this earth are in the oceans and if we drank a little sea water daily we MIGHT be able to prevent cancer in the first place or hold it in check, even in late cases like mine.

"Well, Dr. Crane, I figured I had nothing to lose and since we live only a few miles from the Pacific, I asked my husband to drive down to the seashore.

"We took several jugs and dipped up 10 gallons of water.

"When we got home, I boiled it 10 minutes to sterilize it and then placed it in jars. I've taken a whole glassful each day in milk or tomato juice.

"Two days of the 28 had already passed and I now had only 26 more.

"So I started marking the calendar to see if I could live past that original four-weeks' allotment the surgeons had given me.

"Maybe it was just my grasping at a straw of hope, but anyway I lost my hysterical fear of death, and became much more cheerful.

"My husband was delighted with my changed attitude and even decided it might do him some good to put a little ocean water in his milk or tap water and tomato juice.

"Well, at the end of that 28-day allotment of my life down here on this earth, I was still walking around, doing my housework and eating heartily.

"Another month passed, then a third and now I am starting my fourth year!

"The hospital doctors claim my extra life is due to a delayed reaction to X-ray and irradiation from their cobalt.

"Maybe it is so.

"But maybe I have furnished by protective endocrine glands with the chemical raw materials out of which they are now manufacturing enough anti-cancer hormone to keep my cancer in check.

"For you quoted famous Dr.
Andrew C. Ivy as saying we are usually immune to cancer in youth, due to an adequate supply of anti-cancer hormone, but then our glands may fail to produce enough of that essential hormone, due to chemical deficiency. This sounds very logical to me!"

..... for and about women

Frenchman really is different

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
PARIS — (NEA) — The French have changed. There has been a silent revolution in the last 20 years. Cofremca Institute devoted to in-depth sociological and market studies and destined privately to leading politicians and top-ranking business moguls, has produced a voluminous report representing 20 years' research and the gathering of hundreds of facts and figures.

The gist of this gigantic work, according to Le Point (avant-garde weekly), is that the picture of the Frenchman — undisciplined, stingy, crabby, unfriendly to neighbors and foreigners alike, an all-work-and-no-play Jack — is no longer true.

Undoubtedly the French have acquired a new way of life, a veritable revolution. No shouting. No guillotine. No demonstrations. Not a thunderclap but a tidal wave lasting almost a quarter of a century and coinciding with an almost constant economic expansion.

Figures speak for themselves — 41 million Frenchmen in 1950, 52 million in 1975, 23 million city dwellers as against 34 million today. Even more astounding — 173,000 automobiles registered in 1950, with 1,300,000 in 1974, still increasing in 1975, 623,000 refrigerators in 1954 and now 1,300,000 and consumption of domestic electricity jumping from 3,551 million watts in 1950 against 34,100 million in 1974.

No wonder that ideas, language, life style have changed. The French peasant has thrown his beret to the winds along with his baggy corduroy pants. He has discovered the quality of fabrics, the cut of clothes. The individualist has become sociable, loves to meet people and seeks to know foreigners whom he once detested, experiment in different foods. Over a period of 25 years the peasant is another person, adapting himself to the industrial world. But different, nevertheless, from the American, German or Englishman. According to Cofremca, some of the fundamental changes in France over the last 20 years have been important.

Garner

FRENCH peasant has thrown his beret to the winds. . .

For example, the liberal attitude towards sex, the repudiation of authority and social taboos, the return to nature, the wider range of opportunities for all, the decline of the notion of national superiority, the acceptance of new ideas such as legal abortion and easier divorce laws.

Sociologists point out that there are many other, none the less surprising, straws in the wind, such as:

The decline of ambition, what Americans call the need for achievement. The tendency seems to be to prefer a simpler life, if only because the postman, farmer or gardener can be happy without a surplus of worldly goods and without fighting.

It would seem that the old virtues like duty, sacrifice and resignation to one's lot have been replaced by the desire to enjoy life. Frustrations are bad. Children must be indulged.

Marriage is a domain where women have come into their own in recent years. Even before women's lib was talked of French women decided on freedom at all costs. Away with restrictions in dress. Corsets, girdles and, finally, bras were scrapped, pants were accepted everywhere. And men soon followed the lead by clamoring for more freedom of movement in their clothes.

Children come into the picture, too. They balk at discipline. But parents refuse to sacrifice their lives to their offspring. Yet they want them to succeed without forfeiting their happiness.

"Le Standing" is a slogan which governed the white collar class. In housing, then in the acquisition of washing machines, dishwashers, automobiles, fur coats, country houses, expensive vacations — these were the hallmarks of achievement. They are still important but no longer the be-all and end-all.

However, the middle-class housewife still prefers to invest her money in a freezer or install a bathroom rather than revel in piles of linen of which her grandmother was so proud.

There has been a change, too, in the executive classes giving place to a certain disillusion. The attitude seems to be why strain for achievement which leaves little satisfaction and no chance for a normal, enjoyable life? The result is that in the upper classes young men are preferring the arts and crafts, the older men passing up promotion if it means more responsibility, less leisure.

The weekend exodus to the country proves the desire for a simpler life and the real estate market in rural districts knows no pain. And, the younger people unhesitatingly assert, that at all costs they want to get away from the image of their conservative fathers.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It really requires a lot of discipline to stay out of seven when you have 11 tricks in your own hand and your partner has shown you an ace and a king. But South knew that his partner's ace was in the spade suit and pretty sure that his king would be there also. As a matter of fact, South had almost settled for the ultra-safe five hearts.

If West had opened a club there would have been no play for six the way the cards lay, but West made his normal lead of a diamond and South was able to bring his slam home by means of giving up one trick to gain two.

He won the diamond lead and promptly led a low trump toward dummy's seven and six. East won a surprise trick with his eight, but now South had an entry to dummy to be able to discard his two low clubs on the ace and king of spades. 17 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Attention!

Because of misunderstanding on wedding pictures, The Telegraph is asking prospective brides to arrange for good black-and-white wedding pictures for use with wedding stories.

Color photographs and black-and-white prints off a color negative are unsatisfactory for good newspaper reproduction.

Rather than be disappointed by having a picture rejected by the newspaper, we are advising brides to insist on a black-and-white picture shot with black-and-white film.

Let's Talk About Decorating

By GLADYS WOLBER

More About Rooms for Children

The decor of your child's room should reflect his major interest or hobby. Is your boy a baseball fan? His bedspread, wall posters, etc., can reflect his interest. Does your little girl love kittens or ballet dancing? Let it show in her bedroom.

Two children sharing a bedroom needn't cause problems. If the room is large enough, try dividing it into two "private" rooms. You can use stack unit furniture to construct a "dividing wall" which houses drawers, cupboards and bookcases for storage. Or, you may prefer a plastic accordion-type wall that can be pulled back during the day to create a large play area.

If one of the children is a boy and the other a girl, be sure the bedspread, curtains and accessories reflect the difference—frills and ruffles for one, "all boy" accessories for the other. If you can't divide the room in half, be sure each child has his own desk for studying. Two teen-age girls in your house? Each should have her own makeup area—and how about separate bulletin boards to display individual interests and talents?

We have countless ideas that will help you create functional, attractive rooms at a price you can afford. Stop in and talk with one of our design consultants today. Ideas are our business.

Rethink goals to cope with prices

By JEAN BARNES

"I love antiques but they've been priced out of my league," a collector remarked recently. If you've expressed similar sentiments take heart. You have a lot of company.

If you are not financially able to collect in the manner to which you've become accustomed read on. There are several alternatives open to you.

Instead of lowering the quality of your purchases to accommodate rising prices try making fewer additions of equal or better quality that you presently have in your collection.

Even if you have to put your purchase on layaway or save for several months, the long range goal will be worth it.

If you make your acquisition something really spectacular you can carry the satisfaction of it for many months without feeling the need to buy another thing.

This brings about a second alternative. This could be an excellent time to cull your collection of unwanted objects.

Selling those of lesser quality, pieces with damage or duplicate items will probably net you enough to add new objects to your collection. Don't be afraid to try your hand at trading for what you want. Organize a swap meet with other collectors in your area.

Still another way to beat the budget squeeze is to try second-guessing the collecting trends. Dare to be different. Concentrate on something that few other collectors want.

At one time carnival glass could have been bought by the barrel. Once it caught the fancy of collectors, prices soared. One couple we know began bidding on items at auctions. These were things that no one else wanted five years ago. Today, their home is beautifully furnished in "early nostalgia."

The final alternative, and it really is a must, is to examine your buying habits.

Curtail the impulsive purchase. Know how much you can spend on your collecting and plan your purchases. A really knowledgeable and trustworthy dealer can help you with this. Buy the item not the story. It sounds negative to say, "don't believe anything you hear." But if you're in strange territory, it's better to be skeptical than sorry.

Know your merchandise. Be aware of the number of new reproductions that are floating around.

Scout several gift shops and you'll see a super abundance of new things made to resemble the old. If you buy a reproduction, make sure you are not paying an "antique" price for it.

Forget the price guide books. An antique or collectible is worth only what someone is willing to pay for it. You, the collector, make the final decision on price.

Payments to politicians revealed by Tenneco

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Houston-based international conglomerate has voluntarily revealed making payments to politicians in the United States and to individuals in 24 countries.

Tenneco Inc. reported the payments in a report filed over the weekend with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Company officials said the statement was filed voluntarily because of growing concern about such payments made by other companies.

In the United States, the company said, payments went to political candidates, state utility board chairmen and local government officials from 1970 to 1975.

Payments were made by Tenneco or its subsidiaries to public officials or candidates in Louisiana, Florida, Pennsylvania, Texas, Indiana, California, Illinois, Kentucky, Wisconsin and Rhode Island, the company said.

It characterized some of the payments as campaign contributions, but did not describe the nature of others.

Harold Kelley, a former Kentucky Public Service Commission chairman, said he would ask the state attorney general today to investigate the Tenneco report.

Kelley and William Logan, who also served in the post during the period Tenneco said it made cash payments in amounts ranging from $200 to $2,000, both denied receiving money from the firm.

"I would like to know when those payments were supposedly made, who they were paid to and under what circumstances they were paid. Under no circumstances were they paid to me," Kelley said.

Tenneco did not identify recipients of the payments by name or the amount of some of the payments, saying this information was being turned over to the Internal Revenue Service.

"I can assure everybody that no such contributions came during my term," said Logan, noting that the PSC normally does not regulate interstate gas transmission companies.

In Baton Rouge, La., Judge August Nobile Jr. said he had no comment on his resemblance to the description of a judge to whom Tenneco said it had paid $2,000.

The company said the judge, who was running for an appellate court seat, had issued an injunction against violence during a union strike at a Tenneco plant before the payment and after the transaction denied a union motion to dissolve the injunction.

The circumstances could fit Judge Nobile of the 25th Judicial District.

Nobile issued a permanent injunction against the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers Union in 1969 when the union was on strike at Tenneco's Chalmette refinery.

The judge ran unsuccessfully for the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals in the summer of the following year, and later that year turned down a union request to throw out the injunction.

"I feel what I did as a judge was right," Nobile said. "It's up to the Judicial Council to take it up if they feel like it."

Some are not claiming tax credit: NIU prof

DEKALB—If you're wondering why your federal income tax returns seem to get longer each year—it's because the Internal Revenue Service tries to make them simpler.

At least that's the way one IRS spokesman put it—and he says this year's new tax credits also make the forms more complicated. One of those credits can be claimed by every taxpayer—for himself as well as his exemptions.

It's called the personal exemption credit and it's a $30 reduction in the tax due for each dependent claimed on the return, according to Northern Illinois University accountancy professor, Donald Gaffney. "Not included are the additional exemptions for age or blindness," Gaffney said.

But some taxpayers aren't aware of the savings. "The IRS, in sampling some of their early returns, indicate between 10 and 14 per cent of those entitled to the credit aren't claiming it," he went on to say, but, the $30 credit is a non-refundable one—meaning the reductions can't total more than the actual tax due.

Another tax-law change included in this year's returns is the Earned Income Credit—designed primarily for the low-income family. "It's a credit of ten per cent of a taxpayer's earned income up to $4,000 and then the credit is reduced as the income rises," Gaffney points out. He says this credit is more difficult to figure, but the IRS provides a worksheet in the tax return to determine if you're eligible to claim it.

"The basic requirements for the earned income credit are that the taxpayer maintain a household for himself and a dependent child and that he have no excludable foreign income.

Also, if he's married he must file a joint return," Gaffney explains.

Gaffney went on to point out that the earned income credit is refundable. "This is one of those credits where even if you have no tax liability at all, you will still be entitled to an additional refund."

As the April 15 deadline approaches, many taxpayers scramble to find someone to help prepare their returns. "One important point to remember is that regardless of who prepares the return, the taxpayer is responsible for both filing it and paying any tax due," Gaffney continued.

"A person must be cautious in choosing a tax preparer. In most states, there are no educational or professional requirements—so there's nothing to prevent almost anyone from representing himself as a tax consultant, even though he may not be qualified," he says.

Gaffney says a local banker or businessman may be able to recommend a competent tax preparer if you're unsure as to who is qualified in your area. But he says to be wary of anyone who charges by the size of the refund or requests that the refund check be sent to someone other than yourself.

"Also, demand an exact copy of the completed return and do not sign any forms which are not completely filled out," Gaffney says. He also says it's a good idea to send all correspondence to the IRS by certified mail and/or Return Receipt Requested, so that you may document any questions which may arise later.

But if you find yourself in a situation where you can't pay all the tax that's due, Gaffney says you may file for an automatic 60-day extension. "It's very easy to file," he points out. "Just use form 4868 for individuals or form 7004 for corporations."

"One copy must be sent by April 15 to the IRS Regional Service Center where you file, one copy must be attached to your return and one copy should be maintained for your own records," Gaffney explained. One of the requirements is that 90 per cent of the tax be paid by the filing date or with the extension application.

If all this is difficult to remember—don't forget too, that Uncle Sam is watching and you may be called to an IRS office for an audit. "Usually, it's quite simple—all they want to see is some documentation for some of the deductions claimed," Gaffney explained.

"But if you disagree with the IRS on a deduction or liability, you should simply not agree and then discuss the problem with an attorney or CPA before taking the appeal procedures available," he continued.

$150,000 suit over accident

OREGON — A $150,000 damage suit was filed in the Ogle County Circuit Clerk's office today stemming from the death of Angela Myers, killed Aug. 16, 1975, when she was struck by a car on Ill. 26 near Forreston.

Wilma C. Briggs, a Stephenson County resident was named as defendant in the suit, brought by the victim's father, Eugene Myers.

Briggs is accused of negligent driving in the two-count suit for not seeing the 6-year-old girl standing alongside the roadway as she was traveling north.

The suit also seeks collection of $1,509 in funeral expenses. A jury trial was demanded.

Correction

A news article in Monday's Telegraph inadvertently stated the cost of conducting a bond referendum for the Dixon Rural Fire District would be $15,000. The actual cost of conducting the referendum, regardless of the outcome, is estimated at approximately $3,000. If the referendum is approved, the set-up costs for sale of the bonds, is estimated at $15,000. The Telegraph regrets the error.

Gibson's grand opening next week

A new Gibson's Discount Center in Dixon has scheduled its grand opening for next week. The new facility, comprising 44,000 square feet of display space and a parking lot which will accommodate nearly 800 cars, is located at the shopping center on Ill. 26, just north of The Dixon House on the north edge of Dixon. The interior is shown above.

Charlie Kankelfitz, left, was recently named manager of the new Gibson's Discount Center. Kankelfitz comes to Dixon from Red Wing, Minn., and has been associated with Gibson's for the past five years.

The Dixon Gibson's Discount Center is owned by Pamida, Inc., Omaha, Neb., and operated under a franchise agreement with the Gibson Company of Seagoville, Tex. The Omaha headquarters is a central facility for 186 of Pamida's stores in 12 states of the Midwest and the Rocky Mountain region. The organization now ranks as the largest discounter in the United States.

Kankelfitz won five awards at the Annual Management Conference of Pamida, Inc., last April. The awards included those for good housekeeping, end-of-counter displays, advertising, best promotional idea and sales improvement.

The new Gibson's Discount Center in Dixon will have more than 30 departments under one roof, ranging from health and beauty aids to sporting goods and automotive supplies.

A crew of more than 60 persons has been employed to get the new Dixon store ready for its grand opening. It is anticipated that 75 persons will be employed there when it opens next week.

For nearly 10 years the Gibson's Discount Center in Dixon has been located at 84 Peoria Ave.

Deputy applications available now

OREGON — Due to the newly approved training program for reserve deputies, applications for both men and women reserves will be accepted only once a year, according to Sheriff Jerry Brooks.

Any man or woman, age 21, or over and a resident of Ogle County, wishing to apply for a reserve deputy position may obtain application blanks at the Ogle County sheriff's office in Oregon or call and one will be mailed to them.

All applications must be received by March 1.

He commented a corrective of this would be a requirement an affidavit be presented stating the valid reason for requesting a postponement of trying a case.

Judge Thomas Hornsby advised the circuit courts here now require affidavits be submitted with a request for a continuance of a trial proceedings.

Moran talked about the death penalty law passed by the Illinois General Assembly which the supreme court ruled unconstitutional.

He said the legislation was good up to the point where it provided in cases where a person was given a death sentence, a panel of three judges were to review the imposition of the sentence.

The court ruled against this provision because it took out the discretion of the trial judge to impose the sentence. Admitting it is a very difficult and heavy task to tell a person his life will be taken for the crime he has committed, Moran advised, any law calling for a death penalty must make it mandatory in certain circumstances or it will be overturned by the supreme court.

Moran asserted lawyers are as subject to malpractice suits as are physicians. Such litigation against an attorney usually arises from a civil case in which because of some failure to take proper action his client loses recovery of damages which would have realized had he taken proper procedure.

The Jurist explained a criminal client who feels he has not been properly represented has no case directly against his attorney, but his plea is to get out of prison because of the faulty defense he received.

There are instances, Judge Moran admitted, but none in Illinois, where a convicted client has gone into federal court and petitioned his civil rights were violated because he did not receive a fair defense in the trial and was incarcerated.

Moran told the Rotarians canons of law dictate he may not discuss legal or political opinions.

Asked after the meeting why voters should mark his ballot because he has had judicial experience and his primary opponent has no judicial experience, Moran said: A person who has had trial judge and appellate justice experience is more qualified to serve on the supreme court because he is better equipped to make right decision on given cases.

"You do not get a layman to fill prescriptions nor on a pharmacist to do surgery," continued the candidate.

He asserted work of the supreme court is the same type as done on the appellate court, except for the administrative duties assigned the high court.

THOMAS MORAN

in defending the proper use of plea bargaining.

The candidate admitted the procedure could be abused but asserted it is the responsibility of the trial judge to see that it is not.

The other part of court leniency Moran discussed was sentencing of convicted persons.

A defense he gave for court sentencing was, "there are 393 full circuit judges in Illinois and none of them had any previous training or education how to sentence a convicted person."

The problem is identical cases in separate places may draw different sentences. Some courts levy, "stiff sentences while others give only a slap on the wrist."

Trial judges have the sole discretion in sentencing persons convicted in their courts, within the limits set by state law, commented Moran.

He suggested to correct the situation of different judges handing down different sentences for the same offenses, the legislature could set specific penalties for certain crimes.

"Mandatory imprisonment could be demanded in certain instances to take away the discretion of the trial judges," cited Moran.

The jurist declared trial judges should retain the decision about work release programs and for granting probation.

On the latter, the legislature could direct no probation be granted under certain circumstances and that stated sentences might be decreed for crimes which include gun violence, for example, said the judge.

Continuances of cases prolong the decision of courts and Moran declared part of the problem is caused by overloaded court dockets, justifiable reasons for not calling a case to be tried, but abuses of the privilege occur when continuances are granted by judges without requesting valid reasons.

School board attorneys file brief in appeal

By LENNY INGRASSIA

"If the state's view prevails, then the ability of public bodies to conduct their public responsibility will be severely limited." The remarks were contained in summary in an appellate court brief filed on behalf of the Dixon Public Schools which ruled administrative salaries were set in an illegal closed meeting of the board.

The brief, along with arguments substantiating the April 1 decision by Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales, will be argued orally in the Second District Appellate Court, Elgin. No date has been set for that hearing.

The complaint for declaratory judgment was brought by State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward at the request of the Dixon Evening Telegraph after Board President James Dixon refused to move from his position that certain salaries could be discussed in private session.

Dixon admitted to discussion of salaries for administrative personnel, substitute teachers, tutors and a school psychologist behind closed doors. The Chicago law firm of Robbins, Schwartz, Nicholas and Lifton argues the requirements of the Open Meetings Act were met with formal approval of the salaries in open session Oct. 16, 1974. At that meeting the predetermined salaries were given approval.

Judge Bales held, in his order, that such action violates the open meeting statute. "The Chicago lawyers claim 'the state's approach is characterized by a narrowness of concern. . . . The state falls short of an understanding of the real problems of operating a school district.'"

The brief further argued a "leak" about what the board is considering in salaries "is vital information for the opponent at the bargaining table," referring to the Dixon Teacher's Association negotiations.

Referring to an attorney general's opinion which held initial employment interviews may be held in closed session to give potential employees privacy, the school board attorneys asked: "Are not the same considerations applicable to the evaluation of performance of an (existing) employee? Should there be any less concern for the deleterious effects of adverse publicity arising out of job evaluation on employees' morale and their private lives?"

In recent school board meetings, Supt. of Schools Stanley Weber, one of those whose salaries were set, said he favored an open evaluation of his position as an alternative to having no evaluation.

The attorneys argue the re-employment, change in employment status or change in salary are exempted from public discussion.

The Open Meetings Act states only the appointment, employment or dismissal of an employee is grounds for executive session.

Judge Bales ruled the employees were not being appointed, "the dismissal of any of these employees was not an issue nor were there any complaints lodged against them. . . . This is simply a matter of recontracting with certain employees." He further stated the recontracting of employees does not encompass their employment.

Payments to the Chicago law firm through December for legal representation total $8,800. Of that amount, $5,500 has been earmarked for the appeal. Dixon said the appeal procedure could be continued for more than one year before a final determination is made. He did not indicate whether the schools would proceed to the State Supreme Court if the appellate decision affirms the lower-court ruling.

Salaries under question are those of Weber, two assistant superintendents, Merrill Hughes and Wilbur Stitzel Jr., and 14 other contracted employees.

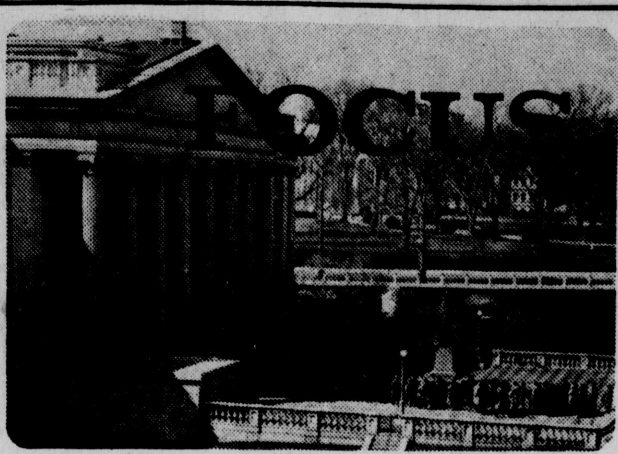

Egan man is arrested

OREGON — Larry L. Jones, 23, Egan, was arrested Monday by Ogle County sheriff's deputies on a warrant for disorderly conduct. Jones was taken to the Public Safety Building where he was released on bond and scheduled to appear in court Feb. 20.

The charge stems from a disturbance involving Mrs. Janice Carlson who told authorities Jones and another man acted suspiciously while she was pulling from her driveway. A warrant was issued by Circuit Judge John Moore.

Unhurt as car goes off road

OREGON — Melvin R. Jones, 57, Rt. 2, Oregon escaped serious injury Monday when the car he was driving left Ill. 2, one mile north of Grand Detour. Jones told Ogle County Sheriff's deputies he was traveling north when his auto struck a guard rail and skidded sideways across the south-bound lane and into a field. Jones suffered head injuries but refused hospitalization at the scene. He was ticketed for improper lane usage.

Treasury Slush Fund?

A fund set up by Congress 41 years ago for the U.S. Treasury, shown above, is the target of a Congressional task force that was scheduled to begin hearings tomorrow. President Roosevelt's Treasury Secretary, Henry Morgenthau, requested the fund to ensure the stability of the American dollar in foreign gold markets. The $2 billion Exchange Stabilization Fund has doubled since it was started in 1934. Congressional investigators have alleged that through the years it may have become a "slush fund" — or money used for special non-public purposes. The term "slush fund" originated with sailors long ago, who raised money for luxuries by selling garbage — called "slush" — off warships.

DO YOU KNOW — Who is the current Treasury Secretary?

MONDAY'S ANSWER — Hua Kuo-feng is the new acting premier of China.

Senior Party Line

I understand that home owners may now file earlier in the year for senior citizen tax relief by using taxes paid the previous year. But do I have the choice of waiting until this Spring, when I receive a new tax bill, to send in the application? By using this year's taxes instead of last year's, I might receive a larger grant. — R. H.

Dear Mrs. H:
There has been a great deal of confusion on this issue. Here's what happened: In 1975 the legislature passed a bill that would enable senior and disabled home owners to file for, and therefore receive, tax-relief grants several months earlier than they had in the past. Renters have always been able to file right after Jan. 1, because they already know how much rent they paid during the year. Home owners, however, had to wait until May, June or even later for their property-tax bills before they could submit an application.

The new law says that home owners will fill out the forms using the amount of taxes they actually paid in 1975, not the taxes they will be paying later this year. The Department of Revenue has said that seniors may not exercise an option to wait until the new tax bills arrive to file a claim. You must file using the property taxes you paid last year. That means those who have been waiting for the current year's tax bill to arrive should instead go ahead and apply for tax relief now, using last year's tax bill. It is the only way your application can legally be processed.

My wife and I just became eligible for property-tax relief. We live on a farm. How much of our property tax can we include when we submit a claim for a grant? — H. L.

Dear Mr. L:
Residents of farms may use part of their total tax bill when applying for property-tax relief, also known as the circuit breaker. The law says that you may include only the amount of property taxes paid on your home and yard — up to five acres. The amount of the grant depends on the relationship of your taxes to your total household income.

Are there any restrictions on which foods can be purchased with food stamps? — E. T.

Dear Mrs. T:
There are no restrictions on the purchase of food, although the U.S. Department of Agriculture encourages food stamp users to buy items from four basic groups — milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals — in order to insure a balanced diet.

Food stamps may also be used to purchase seeds or plants that will produce food for the household. But they may not be used to purchase such items as cigarettes, alcoholic beverages, paper products, pet foods, soaps, and other non-food articles. It is also illegal to use food stamps to pay back bills or credit accounts at a store.

What ages are covered by the federal law against discrimination on the basis of age? — O. P.

Dear Mrs. P:
The current Age Discrimination Act applies to persons up to age 65, but not beyond. There have been several proposals introduced in Congress to eliminate the limit and make the law apply to all ages. Several of them are still under consideration. The law deals with discrimination in employment.

Persons may call the toll-free Senior Action Hotline 800-252-6565 with questions or complaints about government agencies or programs or for information about tax relief, health care, food stamps, Social Security, employment, housing or legal aid.

In Dixon persons may call the Lee County Council for Aging 288-2117.

Howlett hits at management of 1974 Illinois State Fair

CHICAGO (AP)—Democratic gubernatorial contender Michael Howlett said today the 1974 Illinois State Fair was "a textbook example of how not to manage a governmental enterprise."

Howlett, slated by regular Democrats to challenge Gov. Daniel Walker, accused his opponent of being the "worst administrator the office ever had."

In remarks prepared for delivery to the Ag. Club, an agriculture group meeting in Urbana, the Illinois secretary of state said the 1974 fair "disregarded Illinois laws requiring fiscal control and accountability.... The auditor general reported at least $950,000 was spent on questionable contracts."

Howlett said 1974 State Fair "contracts were not advertised. Competitive bidding was unused.... Manure hauling costs increased from about $8,000 in 1973 to more than $261,000 in 1974."

A Walker spokesman reached by telephone in Springfield responded that the governor's Office of Special Investigations initially uncovered wrongdoing in management of the fair.

Howlett's position, the spokesman said, "seems to be inconsistent. He's screaming about a situation that was investigated by an office created by Walker. And yet, he (Howlett) wants to abolish the Office of Special Investigations."

Results of the OSI investigation were turned over to the Sangamon County state's attorney, the spokesman added. A Sangamon County grand jury last year issued a report critical of fair management but returned no indictments.

Walker's spokesman said that as a result of the investigation, two persons in the State Fair agency were dismissed.

"The governor acknowledged the problems with the 1974 fair and they were dealt with swiftly," the spokesman said. "Due to changes initiated by the governor, there has been no hint of problems with last summer's fair."

Howlett made no reference to the 1975 fair. Auditor General Robert Cronson said a financial report on the fair will not be released for 30 to 60 days.

The secretary of state also blasted Walker for vetoing a bill to "prevent future mismanagement (of the fair)." The bill would create a 15-member board to manage the annual event.

When the legislature overrode the veto, Walker "in a final effort to retain the patronage and fund-raising potential (of the fair) challenged this legislation in the courts, opposing the constitutionality of the procedures for ensuring farmer participation on the board," Howlett said.

The Walker spokesman, who said the board proposed by the bill included legislative appointments, countered that Howlett's statement was a "distortion of the facts. (The bill) was in direct conflict with constitutional intent, which is to have accountability invested in the governor for the administration of agencies of the state." He also said farmers currently serve on the board.

Redmen wrestlers place

SUGAR GROVE—The Sauk Valley College "Wrestling Redmen" co-captains, Terry Gray and Mike Cole, placed fifth and sixth, respectively, at the NJCAA Region IV State Tournament held here last weekend at Waubesa Community College.

Gray, wrestling at 118, defeated Rod Dunn of McHenry in the fifth place consolation match 9-5. In the quarterfinals, Gray lost to Dennis Lake of Joliet, the eventual 118 champion. Gray won his first wrestling match 6-0 over Mike Gross of Rock Valley. He then lost to third place winner Jim Gugo of Harper, which put him into the fifth place match with Dunn. Down 5-0 at the end of the second period, Gray scored a reversal and two near-falls and picked up penalty and riding-time points for a come-from-behind 9-5 victory.

Cole, the SVC heavyweight, lost a close match to Rudy Reynolds of Blackhawk in the fifth place consolation finals. In the preliminaries, Cole defeated George Walker of Wright 10-2. In the quarterfinals, Cole lost to Brian Davis of Waubesa, who went on to take second place. In his first wrestling match, Cole pinned Springer of Rock Valley in :50, but Cole then had his hopes for a trip to the nationals quashed by Mike Krautz of DuPage. Krautz pinned Cole in 3:15, tossing him into the fifth place match with Reynolds. Trailing 5-2 after two periods, Cole was unable to turn Reynolds in the last period and could gain only a riding-time point, losing 5-3.

In the team scoring, the Redmen finished 13th in a field of 20. Triton Community College of River Grove ran away with the team championship, piling up 128 1/2 points to second place Joliet's 90 1/2. Triton had three champions and three runners-up, while Joliet had two champs and three runners-up. The Triton team is coached by former Sterling High School wrestler Art Kraft, who was pronounced NJCAA Region IV "Coach of the Year" by a vote of all Region IV coaches Saturday night.

Other "Wrestling Redmen" competing in the tournament were Steve House (142), Mike James (150), Jeff Medema (158), Ron Stiner (167), and Bob Fountain (190). House and Stiner lost in the preliminaries and were eliminated when their preliminary opponents lost in the quarterfinals. Fountain lost both his quarterfinals and wrestle-back matches.

Mike James won his preliminary match 9-6 over Amsler of Lake County, but lost 13-2 in the quarterfinals to eventual champ Denny Moore of Triton. An elbow injury suffered in the quarterfinal match forced James to forfeit his wrestle-back match.

Jeff Medema pinned Stutz of Waubesa in 4:29 in the preliminaries, but was pinned in the quarter finals by Dobbie of McHenry, the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler award winner. He then dropped a decision to Stouffer of DuPage in his wrestle-back match.

Two "Wrestling Redmen," Dave Hooks (134) and Ed Minertz (177), were not allowed to wrestle in the tournament because of injuries. Their absence hurt the Redmen's team effort considerably, as Hooks had the potential to place and Minertz would have been the number two seed had he been able to wrestle.

Since no Redmen qualified for the national tournament, this closes out the season for them. First-year Coach Chuck Walrath had this to say about the season: "We had a lot of joy and a lot of pain this year. I'm sure everyone on the team was disappointed by the way injuries hampered our team efforts. But there were great individual efforts throughout the season that made it all worthwhile. With nearly everyone eligible to come back next year and a good group of seniors in the local high schools, I think the prospects for a much better season next year are more than good."

Region IV team scoring: Triton 128 1/2, Joliet 90 1/2, Waubesa 78 1/2, Blackhawk 75 1/2, DuPage 66 1/2, Harper 41 1/2, Morton 32 1/2, McHenry 28, Lake County 27 1/2, Kishwaukee 23, Wright 19 1/2, Kennedy-King 17 1/2, Sauk Valley 14 1/2, Mayfair 10 1/2, Rock Valley 9, Danville 6 1/2, Elgin 4 1/2, Lincoln 0, Oakton 0, and Thornton 0.

Swimmers second at Streator meet

STREATOR—Mike Boyer copped a first in the 60-yard freestyle and a second in the 100-yard freestyle, here, Saturday to pace the Dixon Dukes varsity swim team to a third-place showing in the Streator Invitational.

The home team took the meet with 320 points, followed by Ottawa's 263, Dixon's 194 and Sterling's 178. Eight places were awarded in the individual events and four in the relays.

Gary Shaw picked up a third and Derry Sheridan an eighth in the 200-yard freestyle event while Jerry Gaul did not place for Dixon. Dennis Shaffer was third and Steve Terranova eighth in the 1600-yard individual medley.

Boyer took the 60 free in :29.7 with Don Watson fifth in :31.4. Shaffer was third in the 100-yard butterfly. Boyer came back to take second in the 100 freestyle in :54.4. Tom Hill and Mark Triplett did not place.

Shaw was second, Sheridan sixth and Gaul did not place in the 500-yard freestyle. In the 100-yard backstroke, Watson claimed second and Hill third. Jim French was seventh, Triplett eighth, while Ted Trulock did not place in the 100-yard backstroke.

The 400-yard freestyle relay squad of Watson, Shaffer, Shaw and Boyer claimed third.

Peoria Richwoods, East Leyden and Aurora West held fast to the top three positions in the weekly Associated Press Class AA Illinois High School basketball poll.

After that, the rankings were completely jumbled as five of the teams stumbled to defeat with Chicago Heights Bloom falling out of the top 16.

Undeclared Richwoods made it 23 straight victories by slamming intricacy rivals Spalding and Limestone. The Knights were named No. 1 on 17 of the 21 ballots cast and totaled 331 out of a possible 336 poll points.

CARBONDALE — When you look at the success of the Southern Illinois wrestling team this year four names stand out among the others: Mark Wiesen, Jim Horvath, Clyde Ruffin and Joe Goldsmith.

Together this group had combined for a record of 83-15-4, has amassed 585 match points while giving up only 216, and have provided 214 of the team's 444 team points. In addition, they have piled up 16 superior decisions and 11 falls while giving up only one and two respectively. This year's team, that has been ranked as high as tenth in the nation by Amateur Wrestling News, is led by last year's top wrestler Mark Wiesen, a 177 pound senior from Fenton, Mich.

"Steady progress, more experience, and improved arm and shoulder strength have been keys to my improvement," said Wiesen. "My riding has really improved because of this upper body strength." Wiesen, who has lost only one match in the last two years at the SIU Arena, is sailing along with a 25-3-0 slate. Close behind Wiesen percentage-wise is senior Jim Horvath of Spring Valley, N.Y., with a 21-2-3 record. "Determination and concentration are my goals this year," said Horvath. "I'm trying to improve on my performance so I'll peak for Eastern Qualifying."

The lone junior in this select group is 150 pound Clyde Ruffin of Dixon. Ruffin has beaten some of the best as he's shown with wins against Oklahoma State, Oklahoma, and Lehigh. His record is an impressive 22-6-0. "I'm starting to pick back up after a couple of midseason losses, said Ruffin. "I've got a better attitude and I worked hard this spring on my riding which has really improved."

The final member of the foursome is senior Joe Goldsmith of Monsey, N.Y., who sports a 15-4-1 mark. "This year I've been more calm and selective in my style, said Goldsmith. "There's been pressure on me to start us out on the right foot in the matches and so far I've been able to help the team by getting us a win most of the time."

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Feb. 17, the 48th day of 1976. There are 318 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1801, the U.S. House of Representatives broke an electoral tie between Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr and elected Jefferson President.

On this date:
In 1621, Miles Standish was made military captain of the Pilgrim colony at Plymouth, Mass.

In 1813, Prussia declared war against France.

In 1916, The British and French captured Germany's African colony of Cameroon during World War I.

In 1934, King Albert I of Belgium was killed while mountain climbing near Namur, Belgium.

In 1964, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that congressional districts in each state must be roughly equal in population.

Ten years ago: Vice President Hubert Humphrey said in New Delhi that the U.S. would provide India a $100 million loan to aid that country's faltering economy.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon said he would put no limit on the use of American air power in Indochina except to ban tactical nuclear weapons.

One year ago: Government forces in Cambodia abandoned efforts to reopen the Mekong River. The river was under Communist control, cutting off supplies to the capital of Phnom Penh.

Today's birthdays: Singer Marian Anderson is 74 years old. Mrs. Clifton Daniel — the former Margaret Truman — is 52.

Thought for today: From the sublime to the ridiculous there is only one step — Napoleon Bonaparte, 1769-1821.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the first American navy of eight vessels left Cape Henlopen, Del. on what was called its first "ocean-going cruise" — a mission to the Bahamas to seek gunpowder.

The Doctor Says:

Different opinions on prostrate gland cancer

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — On a routine examination my doctor found a hardening of my prostate. He sent me to a specialist for a biopsy that turned out to be malignant. He prescribed one gram of diethylstilbestrol for the rest of my life and informed me I may have to have my testicles removed.

I asked him what my life expectancy was and he said 20 years and let him worry about it. I asked my family doctor and he said one to five years.

Any information you would care to give me would be greatly appreciated. I already have enlarged breasts.

DEAR READER — Opinions differ on the best treatment so don't be surprised that what I tell you may vary from what you have heard.

There are about 25,000 new cases of cancer of the prostate in American men each year and 17,000 deaths. It is one of the most important cancers in men. About half of these can be identified by a simple rectal examination. That is one of several reasons why such an examination should be part of every physical.

Many men have clinically insignificant forms of cancer of the prostate. A small nest of relatively inactive cancer cells may be found inside the prostate. If a man lives long enough, he will likely have this even though it may never cause him any trouble at all.

What to do about cancer of the prostate depends entirely on how far it has progressed. When the cancer is confined to the prostate as a small nest of cells or even when it is large enough to be felt on rectal examination but is still confined to the gland itself, efforts should be made for a complete cure of the cancer. How is this done? By surgery on the gland or radiation or both. Hormone therapy or chemotherapy has no place in the treatment of these localized cancers. That means no female hormones and no castration, but rather total removal or destruction of the actual localized cancer.

If the cancer has spread outside the gland to involve the pelvic area or to distant bone sites then you can consider the use of hormones or castration. The idea is to eliminate the influence of the male hormone which is essential for the maintenance of the cancer cells regardless of where they are located. Sometimes such therapy is successful in reducing spots of bone spread, and particularly in relieving pain. There is no real evidence though that the use of female hormones or castration or the combination actually prolong life.

The United States Veterans Administration Co-operative Urological Research Group reported that deaths from heart and vascular disease actually increased 75 per cent in men taking estrogen for cancer of the prostate, which makes this therapy even more questionable in the minds of many authorities. This being the case, there seems little justification for using either estrogen or performing castration except to provide symptomatic relief.

Obviously, I can't say anything about what your life expectancy is without knowing if your disease had already spread beyond the prostate. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)
